

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

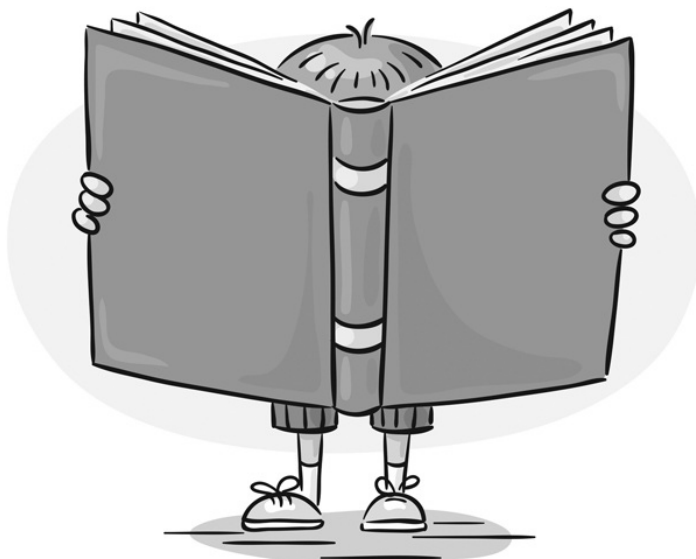

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

Kristi's judgement is put to the task.

Learning Outcome

Describe the reasons or results of events or actions in spoken or written texts, in work and social contexts.

Ask your partner:

- Do colleagues and friends value your judgement? How do you know?
- Is there someone in your life you always listen to? Why?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk or report about things, actions, events, or people in a work environment.
- I can discuss reasons and results of an event or an action related to work and jobs.
- I can exchange complex professional information related to work and job issues.

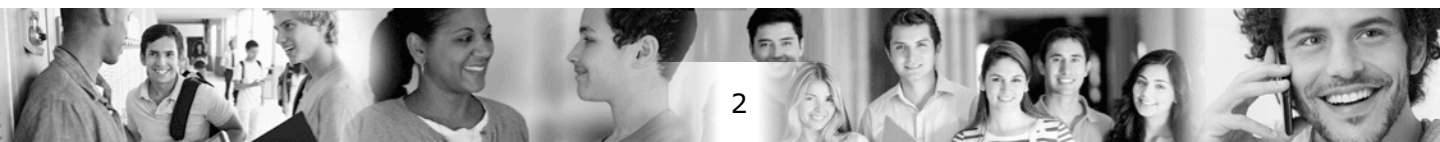

Let's Explore!

Kristi's boss makes a request. Is Kristi up for the challenge?

* "Up for the challenge" means someone is qualified and able to do the job.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Kristi: Hi, Denise. You wanted to see me?
Denise: Yeah. I came to your desk, but you were out.
Kristi: I'm sorry, I went out for coffee.
Denise: No problem. Anyway, we have received the new children's book from Marisa Mitchell.
Kristi: Winnie's World?
Denise: Yes, you know it?
Kristi: I think it came up once in a meeting.
Denise: Right. I've wondered why she chose that name. Ever since I first heard it, I've been trying to think of another name. It's not my favorite. Anyway, I read it earlier and as you are a junior copy editor and have an interest in children's books, I'm going to get you to review it for me.
Kristi: What did you think of it?
Denise: I'm going to abstain from commenting until after you perused it.
Kristi: You're withholding your opinion because you are afraid it may cloud my judgment?
Denise: Ever since my last assistant, I've been reluctant to reveal my opinions on new manuscripts.
Kristi: In case I just parrot your opinion back to you?
Denise: Exactly! Since I need other opinions that is not an effective strategy. I've been a bit more careful since then.
Kristi: Fair enough. Can you tell me what it's about?
Denise: As I said, I don't want to give too much away but the general gist is it's about a hedgehog who teaches children how to use social media safely. I'm curious to see if we have congruent opinions on it.
Kristi: Ok. Could you tell me a little about the author?
Denise: Marisa Mitchell? She has handed in several manuscripts for us in the past, but this one is the first with any real potential. I've often wondered why she decided to become an author, but I think she might be coming into her own. But let's leave it at that. I've always felt that a good review focuses on the writing not the author.
Kristi: Ok. When would you like it done by?
Denise: Tomorrow if you could.
Kristi: Talk to you tomorrow.

Let's Practice!

Is Winnie's World the next big thing? Denise and Kristi discuss Marisa's newest offering.

Instructions: Circle the correct word to correctly complete the sentence. Read the sentences aloud. Check your pronunciation with your instructor.

1. Right. I've wondered / wondering why she chose that name.
2. Ever since I first hear / heard it, I've been trying to think of another name.
3. Ever since my last assistant, I've be / been reluctant to reveal my opinions on new manuscripts.
4. I've / I'm been a bit more careful since then.
5. I've often wondered why she decided to become an author, but I think she might be coming out / into her own.

Let's Practice!

Denise and Kristi discuss Marisa's newest offering.

Instructions: Use the words from the box to correctly complete the sentences.

abstain / leave it / perused / have received

Anyway, we _____ the new children's book from Marisa Mitchell.
I'm going to _____ from commenting until after you _____ it. But let's _____ at that.

Extension Activity

Short Story Review

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Find a short story online.
- Read the story.
- Write a short summary of the story, including information about the story genre, main characters, setting and events that the characters experience (the story plot).
- Write your opinion of the story: what you liked or disliked and why.
- Discuss your summary and review with a classmate.

Self-Assessment

Yes

No

I read a short story.

☐
☐

I summarize important information about the story.

☐
☐

I form an opinion about the story.

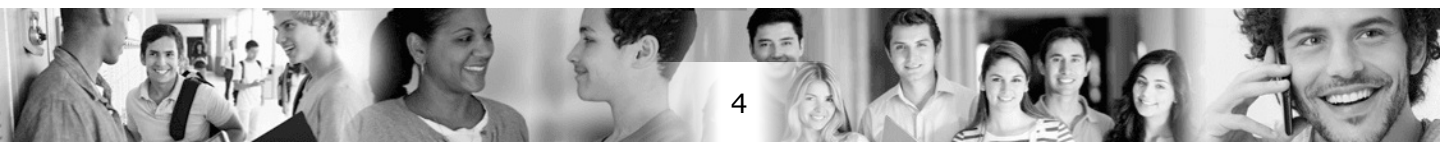

☐
☐

I share my opinions with my classmates about my story and their stories.

☐
☐

Target Words

- cloud my judgment (expression): to interfere with one's ability to think e.g. You're withholding your opinion because you are afraid your opinion may cloud my judgement?
- to parrot (verb): to repeat mechanically e.g. In case I just parrot your opinion back to you?
- to abstain (verb): to restrain oneself from doing or enjoying something e.g. I'm going to abstain from commenting.
- to peruse (verb): to examine carefully or at length
e.g. Have you had a chance to peruse the document?
- congruent (adjective): in agreement or harmony
e.g. I'm curious to see if we have congruent opinions.
- to come into her own (expression): to be very useful or successful in a particular situation
e.g. I've often wondered why she decided to become an author, but I think she might be coming into her own.
- leave it at that (expression): abstain from further comment or action e.g. But let's leave it at that.

Learning Points

Reason Clauses Using Because, Since, As, For, (Just) In Case

You use a reason clause to refer to what someone intends to do. Although the most common way to talk about purpose is with an infinitive of purpose (to + verb), there are other ways to talk about the reasons people do things.

For example:

I told her to hold off writing the report because the details hadn't been decided on yet.

Here, because answers the question Why?

Since the meeting is going over time, we should order dinner for everyone.

As you may have heard, there is a Christmas party next week.

Here, you use since or as to introduce reasons that the listener already knows.

You should e-mail her the information just in case she forgets it next week.

Here, (just) in case is used to talk about things that may possibly happen.

Examples:

- I went out for coffee.
- You're withholding your opinion because you are afraid your opinion may cloud my judgment?
- In case I just parrot your opinion back to you?*

Learning Points

The Present Perfect: Commenting on the Present Results of Something in the Past

You use the Present Perfect to talk about past actions that have a connection to the present.

When you want to comment on the present results of a past action, you can use the Present Perfect with verbs like appear, seem and sound.

For example:

It sounds as if you've already decided on the next course of action.

It seems they have completed the report ahead of schedule.

The form of the Present Perfect is:

subject + has/have + past participle

You can use some typical expressions with the Present Perfect like just, recently, already, lately, before, so far, etc.

Examples:

- I've wondered why she chose that name.
- I've been a bit more careful since then.
- Ever since my last assistant, I've been reluctant to reveal my opinions on new manuscripts.

