

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

Traveling on the company's dime.

Learning Outcome

Describe emotions and feelings in present and past situations in spoken or written texts and in work and social contexts.

Ask your partner:

- Do you keep a strict budget at home? Why or why not?
- How do you feel when someone points out errors in your work? Embarrassed? Angry?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about results in time.
- I can request or report about the purpose of events or actions related to job issues.
- I can exchange complex professional information related to work and job issues.

Let's Explore!

Denise has some questions about Adam's figures

* "Figures" are calculations.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Denise: Adam, I got your request letter this morning and I have a few questions for you so as to clear up any misunderstandings we may have.
- Adam: Ok.
- Denise: A request for a funding letter is necessary so that our employees don't go overboard with their requests and in order to help the company stay on budget.
- Adam: Right.
- Denise: How many people are going on this business excursion?
- Adam: Oh. I don't remember having specified how many.
- Denise: Yeah, I would like to have sent at least two.
- Adam: I can change that.
- Denise: So, you are charging us an $800.00 return? Are you flying business class both ways?
- Adam: Ugh! Well, actually I would have liked to have flown first class, but ... I don't need to. That was a joke.
- Denise: Yeah. I don't recall having signed off on that.
- Denise: Also, you are asking for $250 additional so that you can go to a dinner event and see some inspirational speakers?
- Adam: Oh. I forgot having written that. Well, I thought I could go there in order to make some contacts. Before I come back, I want to have met as many people as possible.
- Denise: Yeah. Well I would like to have lived in the 17th century, but that's not going to happen either. Having said this, I think you get the hint. The request letter needs modifying.
- Adam: Um, so the trip didn't receive funding?
- Denise: No, the trip is a go. I took your letter and modified it this morning, myself.
- Adam: Oh. I guess. I won't be going?
- Denise: Adam. You get to go, but you are going to be assisting Boris. Whatever he needs you will do and do it quickly. Also, I want to have received a new request for funding letter from you by the end of the day.
- Adam: Ok.
- Denise: Adam, having written that letter was good, but you have to be more diligent with your work. You have some good ideas and good instincts, so from now on, I am going to expect a lot more out of you for these reasons.
- Adam: I won't let you down.

Let's Practice!

Adam and Denise discuss the specifics of the trip.

Instructions: Use the words from the box to correctly complete the sentences.

Word Bank

having explained / Having said / having signed / having specified / having written

1. I don't recall _____ off on that.
2. _____ all this, I'm think you get my point.
3. I don't remember _____ how many.
4. Alan, _____ that letter was good, but you have to be more diligent with your work.
5. I forgot _____ that to you.

Let's Practice!

Adam and Denise discuss the specifics of the trip.

Instructions: Read the sentences. Circle the correct words that complete each sentence.

1. Yeah, I would like to have send / to sending / to have sent at least two.
2. I would have liked to have flown / like to have fly / fly first class.
3. Before I come back, I want to has met / to have met / like to have meet as many people as possible.
4. Well I would have like / would liked / would like to have lived in the 17th century, but that's not going to happen either.
5. Also, I want to have received / has received / receiving a new request for funding letter from you by the end of the day.

Extension Activity

A New Beginning

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Interview your friends and family about the idea of starting over in life.
- Ask them the following questions (and add more of your own if you wish):
 - What are some situations when people have had to start over in life?
 - How would you feel if you had to start over?
 - What factors might make starting over a challenge? What would make it easier?
 - Why might some people refuse to start over?
 - Why might some people welcome a fresh start or chance to begin again?
- Talk about your ideas as well.
- Take notes on what they say if that will help you to remember.
- Discuss what you found out in class groups.
- Share your own opinion as well.

Self-Assessment

Yes No

I interview my friends and family about the topic of starting over.

☐ ☐

I share my opinions about starting over.

☐ ☐

I take notes if they will help me to remember.

☐ ☐

I discuss what I found out in groups.

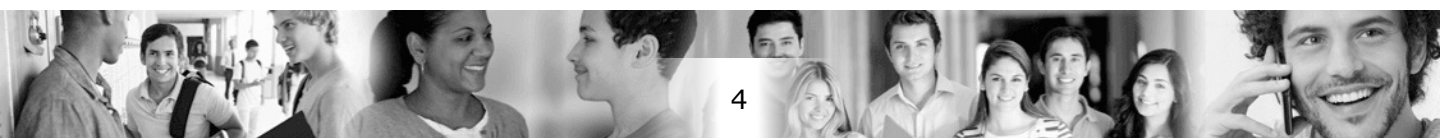

☐ ☐

I share my opinions with my classmates.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- to let down (verb): to disappoint
e.g. I won't let you down.
- excursion (noun): a short journey or trip
e.g. How many people are going on this business excursion?
- hint (noun): a slight or indirect indication or suggestion
e.g. Having said all this, I think you get the hint.
- inspirational (adjective): making you feel hopeful or encouraged e.g. Also, you are asking for $250 additional so that you can go to a dinner event and see some inspirational speakers?
- instincts (noun): natural abilities which help you decide what to do or how to act without thinking e.g. You have some good ideas and good instincts.
- modifying (noun): partial or minor changes to something, typically so as to improve e.g. The request letter needs modifying.
- to go overboard (expression): react in an immoderate way
e.g. A request for a funding letter is necessary so that our employees don't go overboard with their requests and in order to help the company stay on budget.

Learning Points

Perfect -ing Forms to Express Results

You use the Perfect -ing form to talk about results and time. Using this structure gives your language a more dynamic quality. Varying your language use is important in professional contexts when you want to sound interesting.

The Perfect -ing form is:

Having + past participle

For example:

Having heard his speech, I decided to join the company.

Having forgotten my computer at home, I had to use the one at the library.

We signed up for the conference having realized the presenter was the previous CEO.

Examples:

- I don't recall having signed off on that.
- Having said all this, I think you get my point.
- I don't remember having specified how many.
- Adam, having written that letter was good, but you have to be more diligent with your work.
- I forgot having written that.
- I forgot having explained that to you.

Learning Points

Purpose Clauses

There are various ways to express purpose in English. You can use so that or in order to, so as to and for; sometimes you can simply use the infinitive of purpose.

So that

You use so that to say that one person does something and as a result someone else can do or doesn't have to do something else. You use it to connect the two clauses.

For example:

*She drove me to work so that I didn't have to walk in the rain.

In order to/So as to

You can use in order to or so as to in more formal contexts, such as in the workplace or in writing.

For example:

*She drove to work in order not to have to walk in the rain.

*She drove to work so as not to have to walk in the rain.

For

For is very formal and should only be used in rare cases.

For example:

I am going to expect a lot more out of you for these reasons.

Examples:

- Well, I thought I could go there in order to make some contacts.
- I am going to expect a lot more out of you for these reasons.
- A request for funding letter is necessary so that our employees don't go overboard with their requests
- I have a few questions for you so as to clear up any misunderstandings we may have.
- A request for funding letter is necessary so that our employees don't go overboard with their requests and in order to help the company stay on budget.

